Consider an intermediate feature map H obtained after applying convolution operation on the input X using kernel F .

$$H = \begin{bmatrix} 3 & 2 & 2 & 0 \\ 1 & 2 & 1 & 1 \\ 3 & 1 & -1 & 2 \\ 1 & 0 & 1 & 2 \end{bmatrix}$$

Apply the max-pooling operation using a filter of size 2×2 with stride $s = 2$ and no padding ($p = 0$) and store the resultant output in matrix H_m . The prediction $\hat{y}$ is simply the sum of elements in H_m . Suppose $\frac{\partial L}{\partial \hat{y}} = 1$ (that is, the gradient of loss with respect to the prediction). What is the gradient $\frac{\partial L}{\partial H_{00}}$ where H_{00} is the element at the 0-th row and 0-th column? If you think the given info is insufficient, enter -1 as the answer.

General Instructions:

(i) There are two sections in the question paper. All questions are compulsory.

(ii) Section A consists of long-answer type questions, numbered 3 to 5. The word limit and marks for each question are mentioned alongside it. The answers can be short and to the point. So, think for 80% of the time and the remaining 20% for typing. Refrain from looking at the neighbouring candidate's screen and reproducing their answers. Such behaviour is easily detectable and may attract penalties. Please be mindful that irrelevant answers, responding with unrelated content or duplicating information already provided in the question paper will not earn you marks. Ensure that your responses are supported with relevant content from the course, incorporating theories and/or suitable examples to demonstrate their application in the given case study/scenario.

(iii) Multiple choice questions, numbered from 6 to 25, of one mark each. Read the instructions carefully and choose the closest and correct option; there is only one right answer for each question.

(iv) All characters, relationships and events depicted in the questions or cases are fictitious. Any similarity to actual events or persons, living or dead, is coincidental.

SECTION A

Questions 3 and 4 are based on the case study "CARRIE WAGNER: CLIMBING THE CORPORATE LADDER (A & B)". Question 5 is independent of the case study. Ensure that your responses are supported with relevant content from the course and the case study.

Case Summary:

Part (A) - Early Career, from Student to Manager:

Carrie joins a large multinational as a summer student, then works part-time while finishing her undergraduate degree in history. Upon graduation, she takes a job in the budget but fully expects to pursue a graduate degree. After six months, Jim, an Executive Director, takes an interest in Carrie and she is promoted to manager, working for an extremely difficult boss named Edith. The case details several aspects of Carrie's first experiences as manager:

- her difficulties with Edith, her direct supervisor, who is disliked by Carrie and her team and how Carrie deals with - and avoids this problem;
- Carrie's increasing investment in her work, her inability to say no to requests from higher-ups and her development of an informal network within the company;
- how she manages her 10-employee team, in particular, how she evaluates their performance;
- how Carrie compensates for her lack of technical knowledge (finance, budgeting) and still manages to succeed in this management position.

Part (B) - Towards Senior Management:

Carrie climbs several management levels up to the position of Executive Director.

- her first steps as Regional Director of Sales (at 32) and how she wins the support of the displaced 'heir apparent' to the job;
- her promotion to Executive Director of Customer Services (at 38), coinciding with the beginning of a part-time MBA, and how she improves the performance of this underperforming division by accumulating a series of 'small successes';

- Her appointment (at 44) as head of a major strategic initiative (a logistic service for businesses), despite her reluctance to accept this position. It is a high, high-visibility project and Carrie has to develop relationships with the powerful steering committee. Case describes, how she confronts Indra, the VP Marketing, at a steering committee meeting, and how Carrie decides to experiment with a new sales approach without the prior approval of committee.

[Carrie Wagner] Evaluate Carrie's path to leadership using Daniel Goleman's Emotional Intelligence framework. (Answer in 100-150 words)

Hint: Mention 4 constructs of the EI framework

[Carrie Wagner] Carrie faces a pivotal career decision: stay at her current company, where she's viewed as a potential candidate for the VP role—a challenging position—or leave to accept a senior role at a government agency regulating her industry.

As Carrie's coach, what advice would you offer to guide her through this significant decision?

If you were in Carrie's shoes, would you be prepared to leave a company where you've dedicated 30 years, or would you choose to wait for the opportunity to become VP?

(Answer in 100-150 words)

Hint: If you are a seasoned professional, assume the role of Carrie's coach; if you are a young learner, step into Carrie's shoes.
