General Guidelines:

(i) This paper comprises two types of questions: Short Answer Type and Multiple Choice Questions. The total marks for the paper are 30. Answer all questions to the best of your ability.

(ii) Short Answer Type Questions:

- These questions are numbered 3 to 4. Each question includes a specified word limit and mark allocation.
- Ensure that your answers are well-supported with relevant content from the course and suitable examples where applicable. Answers based purely on guesswork or personal opinions without support from theories or frameworks will not earn any marks.
- Irrelevant answers, off-topic responses, or duplication of information from the question paper will not receive marks.

(iii) Multiple Choice Questions:

- These questions are numbered 5 to 23 and carry one mark each.
- Carefully read each question and select the most accurate option. There is only one correct answer per question.

(iv) All characters, relationships, and events in the case or questions are fictitious. Any resemblance to real-life persons or events is purely coincidental.

(v) Any content in this paper that is owned by authors, publishers, or copyright holders will be appropriately redacted to avoid copyright infringement.

For Questions 3a, 3b, and 3c, answer based on the description provided below. This question is divided into three sub-questions. Please answer all parts. [Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs] reflect on your own academic or professional experience. Ensure that each response corresponds to a distinct need. Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs explains how human motivation progresses from lower-order to higher-order needs. In academic and professional contexts, individuals may experience different dominant needs at different points in time, which influence their behaviour, decisions, and performance.
3 a. Describe a situation where a lower-order need was dominant for you. Clearly mention the specific need from Maslow's Hierarchy and explain how it influenced your focus or motivation. (Answer in 50 words, 2 marks)
3 b. Recall an experience where a need was not adequately met. Clearly identify the specific need from Maslow's Hierarchy and explain how this affected your engagement or performance. (Answer in 50 words, 2 marks)
3 c. Reflect on a situation where you were driven by a higher-order need. Clearly mention the specific need from Maslow's Hierarchy and explain what motivated you and how you responded. (Answer in 50 words, 2 marks)
NOTE: Your total word count should not exceed 150 words. Total marks are 6.

For Questions 4a and 4b answer based on the description provided below. This question is divided into three sub-questions. Please answer all parts.

[Systems Thinking] TechStream Solutions, a mid-sized software firm, shifted to an open-plan hotdesking setup to encourage innovation. However, productivity has declined. Employees now spend most of their time fixing urgent issues instead of working on long-term development. A culture has emerged where being constantly available is seen as being productive. As a result, developers frequently interrupt their work to solve minor problems, reinforcing a firefighting mindset. Weekly performance metrics push teams to take shortcuts, which leads to recurring bugs and more urgent fixes later. Efforts such as hiring new developers have not improved the situation, as they get absorbed into the same cycle. The poor coordination between Sales and Engineering creates unrealistic deadlines, increasing pressure on the system.

Question: You are brought in as a consultant to address the situation. Using one systems thinking principle and one habit from the course, analyze the problem and explain what the manager must understand to move from firefighting to sustainable performance.

4 a. Principle (Answer in 50 words, 2 marks)

4 b. Habit (Answer in 100 words, 3 marks)

NOTE: Your total word count should not exceed 150 words. Total marks are 5.

[Four Zones of Growth] Scenario: Meera has worked for four years as a data analyst at InsightWorks, where she is highly proficient in creating dashboards and routine reports. Her manager assigns her to lead a new AI-driven customer segmentation project, requiring skills in machine learning and advanced statistics, areas she has not worked in before.

Initially, Meera feels overwhelmed and doubts her ability to handle the project. However, she enrolls in an advanced machine learning cohort, collaborates with experienced data scientists, and begins experimenting with models in her free time.

Over several months, she gains confidence and successfully delivers a robust segmentation model that significantly improves marketing outcomes.

Which of the following best describes Meera's journey through the Zones of Growth?

Options :

6406536929177. ✖ She remained in the Comfort Zone because she relied on her existing analytical skills

6406536929178. ✔ She moved from the Comfort Zone to Fear Zone, and then progressed through the Learning Zone

6406536929179. ✖ She skipped the Fear Zone and directly entered the Growth Zone, while expanding her Learning Zone

6406536929180. ✖ She moved from the Fear Zone to the Growth Zone, crossing the Comfort Zone

[Growth Mindset] Scenario: At VoltEdge Systems, the engineering team is hitting critical roadblocks during the final integration phase of a new medical imaging device. Here is how the leads are responding:

Abdul: When the initial PCB prototype failed a thermal stress test, he noted, "The architecture is complex, but each failure point gives us data to refine the next iteration."

Veronica: Faced with a recurring bug in the firmware, she organized a "debug sprint" with the software team, saying, "I want to understand the logic errors so I can write better test cases in the future."

Manoj: After a high-stakes client demo resulted in a system crash, he remarked, "I'm an electrical engineer, not a presenter. I'm just not built for client-facing roles; you either have that charisma or you don't."

Ishita: When a key component went EOL (End of Life) unexpectedly, she began researching alternative semiconductors, stating, "I haven't managed this specific supplier type before, but I can learn the procurement nuances."

[Growth Mindset] Whose responses align with the principles of a growth mindset?

Options :

- 6406536929181. ✓ Abdul, Veronica, Ishita

[Cultural Dimensions] Scenario: Erika, a manager from the United States, recently relocated to India to lead a supply chain transformation project. In her previous role in the US, she encouraged employees to take personal ownership of tasks, voice opinions, and pursue independent problem-solving approaches. She viewed initiative and self-expression as key drivers of performance.

However, in India, Erika observed that her team preferred to work collaboratively, often seeking group consensus before making decisions. Team members were more comfortable aligning with collective goals rather than standing out with viewpoints. Even high-performing employees hesitated to highlight personal achievements, emphasizing team success instead.

Erika realized that the expectations regarding individual versus group orientation differed significantly between the two contexts.
